SILAGE MAKING ON THE FARM

SILAGE (pickled grass!)

We're constantly building up a bank of food to see our cows through the winter months for when we move them indoors.

To make the Winter food, which is called silage, we cut nutritious fresh green grass, clover and lucerne, wilt it to reduce the moisture and then ensile it under plastic to exclude any air and preserve it for winter feeding. It's a kind of pickled grass and the cows love it!

If you have any questions about the farm and where your food comes from please don't hesitate to ask.

RESTORATION PROJECT

We've just acquired a 1961 Massey Ferguson 35 tractor that we're planning to lovingly restore. It's been working every day on a nearby farm from new and is the kind of tractor that we would have been using when my parents built the farm. It's quite different to the monster machines that we use today. We'll keep you up to date on the progress.

The picture to the left shows three generations of machinery used on the farm to clamp silage - circa 2015 on the left, 1983 in the centre, with our 'new to us' 1961 Massey Ferguson on the right.

NAME OUR TRACTOR

Help us to name our semi-retired tractor and you could win a huge 'sweet treat' and a £20 voucher to spend at Hanley Farm Shop. Entry forms available in-store.
